Mayaguez rescue unnecessary: Congress report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Congressional report said Tuesday President Ford did not need to bomb Cambodia or send Marines to rescue the crew of the Mayaguez in 1975 because the Cambodians already had decided to free the hostages.

White House spokesmen rejected those conclusions but declined to speculate whether there was any political motivation in releasing the report on the eve of Ford's foreign policy debate with Jimmy Carter.

Assessment of the Mayaguez incident came in a 162-page study prepared by the General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, for the House International Relations Committee.

THE DOCUMENT said Ford's national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, had urged the report be classified secret, and that administration officials protested it as unwarranted second-guessing.

Forty-one U.S. servicemen were killed, presumed dead or listed as missing as a result of the military rescue operation launched by Ford in May 1975 to rescue the crew of the container ship Mayaguez, which had been captured by Cambodian navy forces.

The effort included the sinking of Cambodian gunboats by U.S. warplanes, bombing of the Cambodian mainland and a climax assault by Marines on Koh Tang Island where the captives were held.

"IN RETROSPECT, the final Marine assault and the bombing of the Cambodian mainland did not influence the Cambodian decision to release the crew," the report said.

"However, certain U.S. actions probably did influence that decision; for example, the sinking of gunboats and U.S. air activity in the area."

U.S. officials have reported 50 Americans were wounded in the overall operation, and estimated that 47 Cambodians were killed and 55 wounded.

In a minute-by-minute chronology of events, the report said the newly installed Communist Cambodian government had decided to release the Mayaguez crew before the bombing raids and the Koh Tang island assault occurred. It suggested Ford and his advisers paid too little attention to diplomatic initiatives being carried out by third powers.

"WHILE THE United States undertook a number of diplomatic initiatives to secure the release of the Mayaguez and its crew," it said, "little weight appears to have been given to indications that the Cambodians might be working out a political solution.

"Among these indications was a report received more than 14 hours before the Marine assault was initiated which indicated that a foreign government was using its influence with Cambodia to seek an early release of the Mayaguez and expected it to be released soon."

In San Francisco, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters: "We disagree with the conclusions" of the GAO report. "The President carried out the actions in the Mayageuz case and believes they were proper."

Delays master plan OK

ECC, parks officials object to landfill plans

Representatives of the Arlington Heights Park District and the Environmental Control Commission Tuesday night objected to plans for developing the Arlington Heights landfill site into a recreational facility, further delaying approval of a master plan for the 57-acre site at Nichols and Schaefer roads.

The plan proposed by Stanley Consultants, Chicago, was reviewed at a meeting of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

The Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding recommended that Stanley Consultants be hired to prepare a plan for closing the sanitary landfill according to Illinois Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

THE CLOSURE PLAN will cost $3,000. The expenditure first must be approved by the village board.

Stanley Consultants was severely criticized by Kathryn Graham, a park board commissioner, and Jean Hanlon and Marilyn Macko of the village's Environmental Control Commission.

Mrs. Graham said the consulting firm has ignored the requests of the park district, which will maintain the landfill recreational facility if built.

The consultants have developed a three-alternative master plan for the site, highlighted by the development of a trap and skeet shooting range and ski slopes. An ice skating area and picnic area also are suggested.

"The park district has asked repeatedly why so much land must be devoted to skeet and trap. We feel the whole plan has been arranged to accommodate the skeet shooting," Mrs. Graham said.

She said the park district also would prefer to have the ski slopes built on the north side of the landfill mountain, rather than the southwest side, because the sun will melt the snow more quickly on the west side.

MRS. MACKO SAID her requests for information on how state EPA regulations will be met also have been ignored. She and Mrs. Hanlon Tuesday asked for more specific cost figures and estimated noise levels from the skeet shooting.

Mrs. Macko said she asked for the noise measurements two months ago to determine whether the skeet shooting range is compatible with the area.

The Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding directed Stanley Consultants to take noise level measurements during a skeet shooting match at the landfill site Oct. 24 and to meet with the park district administration before the committee's next meeting Nov. 8.

Cuts in land appraisals approved for 12 owners

The elimination or "substantial" reduction of special assessments for 12 residential property owners to pay for streetlights along Northwest Highway has been agreed to by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The chairman of the board of local improvements, however, questioned whether such a plan will be accepted in court.

Kenneth Stonesifer, attorney for the board, was directed by the board to attempt to reduce the assessments for the residential properties to "substantially zero," or start the special assessment proceedings over and leave out the residential area.

THE VILLAGE trustees agreed that they had never intended for residential properties to be included in the tax district formed to pay for sodium-vapor streetlights along Northwest Highway, between Highland Avenue and the village's west boundary just west of Wilke [illegible]

The special asse[illegible] plan filed in Cook County Circuit Court has residential property being assessed only one-fifth as much as commercial property, which means an assessment of about $200 for most of the homeowners, said David Patterson, chairman of the board.

"We don't even know if the courts will accept that assessment plan. It is possible they will say this assessment is too low. I think it would be very, very difficult to justify in court the passage of a special assessment district going part way and then excluding certain property owners," Patterson said.

Patterson also said the decision to leave the residential area out of the special assessment district could establish a "dangerous precedent" of having the village pay for improvement involving residential property owners.

THE HOMEOWNERS included in the special assessment district have objected strenuously, saying the lights will be a "public benefit" because they will be placed along a state highway.

Car bomb injures man; clues sought

Arlington Heights police are seeking clues in a car bombing that slightly injured a Palatine man.

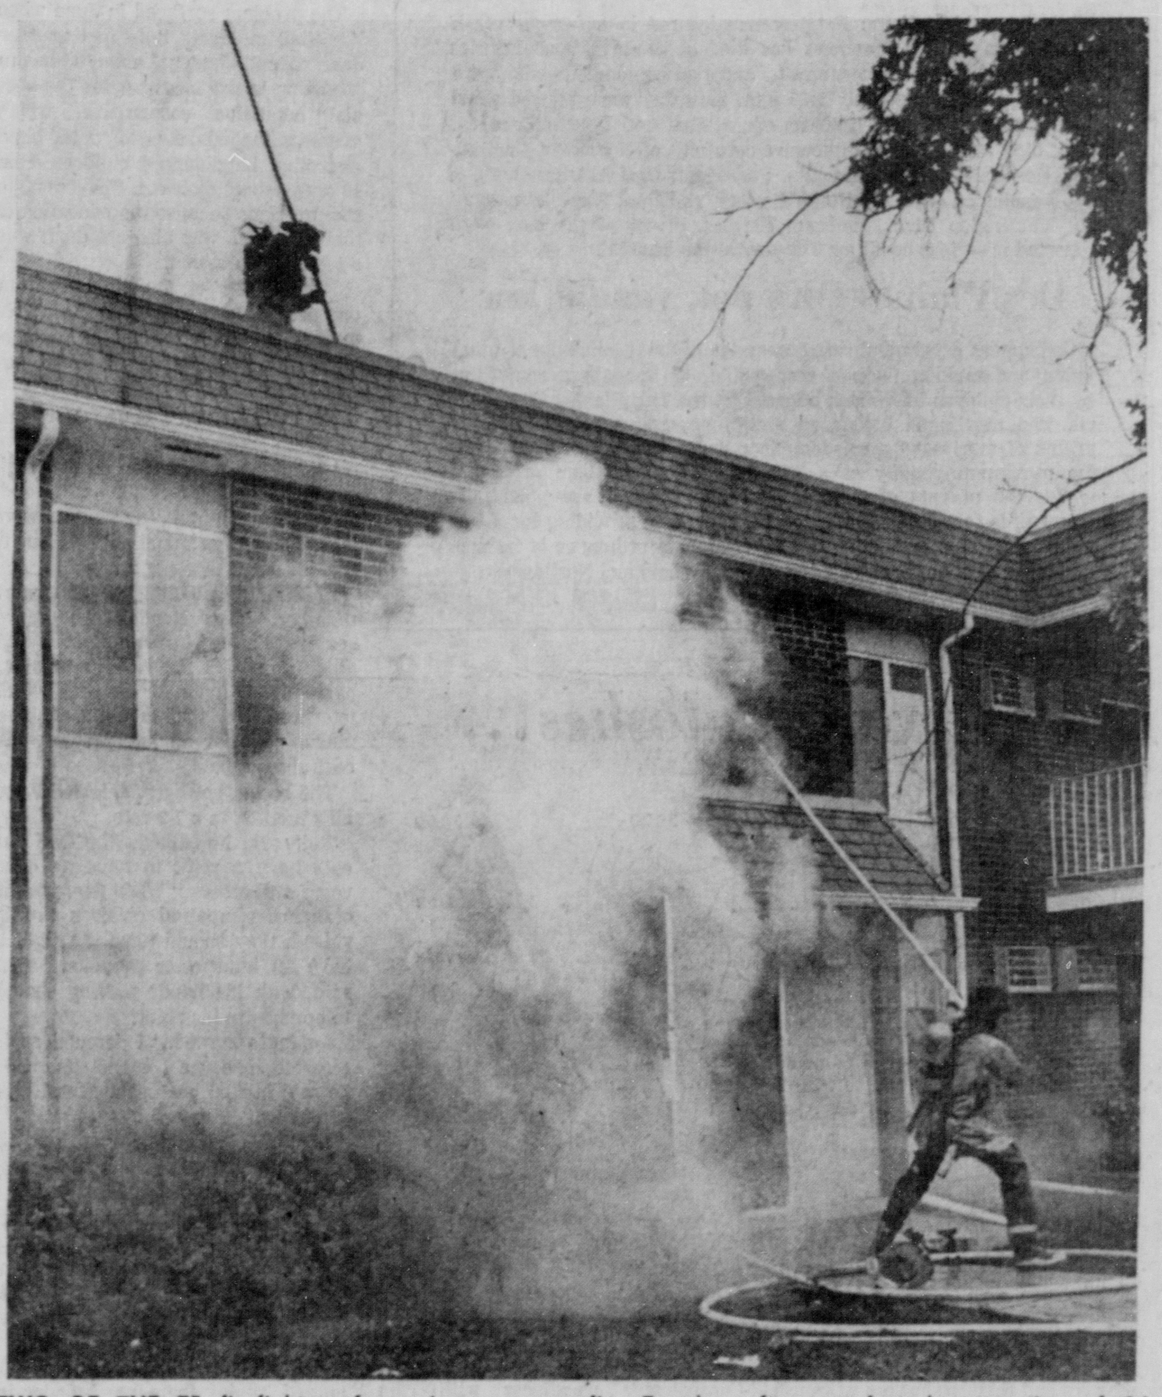
Police said William Fashing, 607 S. Stuart Ln., received burns on his arms when a bomb placed in the passenger compartment of his car exploded Monday night in the parking lot of the Northwest Medical Arts Building, 1100 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights.

Fashing was standing outside his car when the bomb exploded. Police said there was only minor damage to the auto.

Arlington Heights firefighters transported Fashing to Northwest Community Hospital where he was treated and released.

Details of the explosive used in the bombing and motives behind the incident are being investigated and police have not released further information on the blast.

Fashing refused to comment about the incident Tuesday night.



TWO OF THE 75 firefighters from nine communities smash holes in windows and a roof to vent smoke at a two-alarm blaze at the Mill Creek Apartment Complex in Buffalo Grove. A basement fire Tuesday afternoon forced evacuation of 24 families, and resulted in treatment for smoke inhalation of an Arlington Heights fireman. No other injuries were reported in the blaze.

24 families homeless, fireman hurt in apartment blaze

by DAVE IBATA

A fire in the basement of a Buffalo Grove apartment building Tuesday afternoon left 24 families homeless and injured an Arlington Heights fireman.

The blaze, which broke out in the north storage area of the 1125 Miller Ln. building at the Mill Creek Apartment complex shortly after 4 p.m. Tuesday, produced heat up to 1,000 degrees fahrenheit in the windowless basement, while flames shot between the walls to the first and second-floor apartments.

BUFFALO GROVE, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village and Long Grove firefighters who responded to the two-alarm blaze found that and smoke in the basement impenetrable, said Wayne Winter, Buffalo Grove fire chief.

The two-story building's 24 units were evacuated.

Firefighters cut two holes in the concrete floor of the first floor and poured water into the basement, Winter said. Firemen also put out fires that spread to apartments, and punched a hole in the roof over a stairwell

Candidates briefed for Round Two

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Ford studied foreign policy briefing books in a rented mansion Tuesday and Jimmy Carter consulted brain trusters at his hotel in advance of tonight's Round Two campaign debate.

Presidential aides said Ford's strategy was set: Push the authoritative "presidential" image; stress that the United States is at peace with the world; and suggest Carter scares people with naive schemes for defense cuts and other reforms.

Carter's strategy seemed clear too: Swing onto the attack with the first question, paint Ford as the mouthpiece for Henry Kissinger's "Lone Ranger" policies and question the morality and effectiveness of U.S. defense spending, arms control efforts and nuclear fuel exports.

With both men shooting for the chance to claim a clear cut "victory" this time, television technicians worked to prevent a repetition of the audio failure that plunged the Sept. 23 debate on domestic issues into 28 minutes of silence.

CBS-TV HANDLING broadcast pool arrangements this time, wired up San Francisco's Palace of Fine Arts theater with three audio systems, including two fail-safe backups. Failure of an amplifier worth about $1 caused the earlier crisis.

In the Chicago area the debate will be televised at 8:30 p.m.

Ford, rated by most polls a narrow winner in the first debate, spent much of Tuesday reviewing thick foreign policy briefing books in his rented Pacific Heights mansion.

Those books are crammed with facts provided by the State Department, the Pentagon and other agencies, supplementing his daily intelligence briefings — and aides claimed Ford has a natural advantage over Carter.

"This is our debate," one said. "This stuff is what presidents do, and he's being advised by the people who are actually doing it. Carter is getting advice from people who haven't been in government since they gave us the Vietnam War."

Key presidential advisers said privately Ford would stress that no U.S. troops are fighting anywhere now.

THEY SAID he would also stress the need for maintaining strong national defenses, picking up — probably in more gentlemanly terms — running mate Robert Dole's claim that Carter "is downright frightening" on defense issues.

Carter, too, came in loaded for bear and determined to be more aggressive than he was the first time, when he conceded he started too slow and soft.

He began boning up for this foreign and defense policy last week by consulting such experts as former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, and he claimed on arrival in San Francisco Monday the campaign momentum has turned his way.

"Just watch the polls, we're really moving," he said.

Carter set aside time Tuesday to consult in his Sheraton Palace Hotel suite with Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a

Fire leaves 24 families homeless

Twenty-four families were left homeless and an Arlington Heights fireman was injured Tuesday when a fire spread from the basement of a Buffalo Grove apartment complex to the upstairs apartments. The blaze broke out at 4 p.m. in the storage area of a building at 1125 Miller Ln., in the Mill Creek apartment complex and spread to first-and second-floor apartments, forcing the evacuation of 24 families. Buffalo Grove firefighters were aided by 19 pieces of equipment and firefighters from Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village and Long Grove. Fire Lt. Edward Fitch of the Arlington Heights Fire Dept. was overcome by smoke and treated at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said the families were relocated by the apartment complex management to other apartments or are staying with friends until the 12 damaged apartments are repaired. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Blast injures Palatine man, 36

Arlington Heights Police are investigating a car explosion that injured a Palatine man. Police said William E. Fashing, 36, of 607 S. Stuart Ln., suffered burns on his arms when a bomb planted in the passenger compartment of his wife's auto exploded at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the parking lot of the Northwest Medical Arts Building, 1100 W. Central Rd. Fashing reportedly was standing outside his car when the bomb exploded, causing minor damage to the auto. Fashing was taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was treated and released. Police are seeking clues and a motive in the bombing.

Man, 20, injured in crash, dies

A 20-year-old Hoffman Estates man injured in a two-car crash Saturday in Rolling Meadows has died of massive head injuries John J. Beck of 118 Evanston St., and two companions who were riding in a Volkswagen at 11:30 p.m. Saturday were injured when their auto collided with a sports car at Golf and Algonquin roads. Beck died Monday in the intensive-care unit of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Passengers Jeff Ackerman, 20, of 356 Washington Blvd., Hoffman Estates, and Paul Short, also 20, of 218 Washington Blvd., Hoffman Estates, driver of the car, were reported in serious condition Tuesday at the hospital.

Des Plaines OKs pot, vandal law

Ordinances decriminalizing possession of small amounts of marijuana and making parents responsible for vandalism committed by their children have been adopted by the Des Plaines City Council. The marijuana ordinance makes possession of less than 30 grams of marijuana a misdemeanor under the city code and sets the maximum penalty at a $500 fine. The vandalism ordinance makes the parents of children 10 to 18 years of age potentially responsible for restitution up to $500 as well as providing for a fine of up to $500 for each offense. The vandalism ordinance is fashioned after a similar measure adopted in Deerfield and Northbrook.

Wall of silence separates parents', officials' goals

by DIANE GRANAT

Dennis Roin, like most parents, is concerned about his children's education. He wants to be sure they receive better schooling than he did when he was young.

When Roin was unhappy with the placement of his daughters through the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, he decided to complain to the organization's board of education rather than sit back in silence.

But unlike most parents, Roin is deaf. Because of his hearing loss, a wall of silence stands between Roin and the NSSEO governing board. His attempts to break it down have led to a disturbing controversy.

THE QUESTION is one of responsibility: who should pay the $10 an hour for an interpreter when Roin and other deaf parents come to NSSEO meetings — the parents or the board?

The paraents say the board should pay for their interpreter, especially because it is a school board serving children with special needs. Some board members argue, though, that providing an interpreter for the deaf may set a dangerous precedent, requiring them to offer services for a variety of other needs.

The problem surfaced in June when Wheeling residents Roin and another deaf parent, James LoManto, began attending board meetings for the special education cooperative, which oversees the education of deaf, blind and other handicapped children from 10 area school districts. They went to the meetings because the education of their children, who also are deaf, was a topic of discussion.

The transfer of the children from one deaf education program to another was the original issue, but the controversy now has switched to the parents themselves.

AT THE FIRST meeting Roin and LoManto attended, the cooperative provided an interpreter with knowledge of sign language. But at the second meeting in July, the parents were told that NSSEO would not continue to pay for an interpreter, Roin said.

At the July meeting, NSSEO board member Walter Kendall, who represents Palatine Township Dist. 15, made a motion for NSSEO to reimburse the parents for the cost of an interpreter for that meeting. An evening's work for an interpreter would cost about $30.

The board, however, defeated Kendall's motion, in a 7-3 vote.

Roin said he believes the deaf parents have a right to have an equal voice with others. "When deaf parents of hearing-impaired children are involved, they should have the right to have an interpreter provided," Roin said, with his hands moving sharply to emphasize his point.

LoManto agreed. "I demand an interpreter because I cannot lip read," he said in sign language. "I am deaf, you know."

KENDALL SAID he believes the deaf parents are entitled to an interpreter because they have a right to become involved in a public meeting.

"In political bodies you have to bend over backwards to make it possible for ordinary citizens to take part," Kendall said. "If that costs money, so be it.

But several board members disagreed, saying there are broader implications if an interpreter is provided for deaf parents.

"It opens a Pandora's Box," said member Susan Rose, from Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21. "Consider, then, if a blind parent wants to come, should we have to provide transportation? If these people needed a babysitter for their children — and it's difficult to find child care for handicapped children — should we help?"

Richard Soby, a board member from Arlington Heights Dist. 25 also voted against paying for an interpreter. He said he believes that if NSEO asked the parents to attend the meeting for a discussion on the deaf education program, the board would be obligated to provide an interpreter. But if the parents come to the meeting on their own, it is not the board's responsibility, Soby said.

COURTS MUST PAY for interpreters for deaf individuals, but there is no law which provides interpreters at public meetings and public hearings.

Since there is no law to set a precedent, a decision will have to be made within NSSEO. When the issue came up again at the September board meeting the question was referred to the policy committee. A recommendation will be made at tonight's NSSEO meeting.

The policy will have to answer whose responsibility is it to supply an interpreter to let a deaf person have a voice in a world that does not understand his language.

Parent Bonnie Carroll of Palatine said the board must allow the deaf parents to participate because they have a vital interest in the discussions.

"So often deaf people will sit in the background and not get involved," Mrs. Carroll said. "The deaf people don't always want to come to meetings — they get bored when they don't know what's going on.

'BUT THESE PEOPLE have children in the program. It is not that they just enjoy going to the meetings."

NSSEO Board Pres. Margaret Pageler, from Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, said she isn't sure what is the right answer.

"Is this something that is the responsibility of a public body to provide, the way you provide ramps for wheelchairs?" Mrs. Pageler asked. "Or is it like people with small children — although they need a babysitter, they just have to pay. It's hard to decide."

DENNIS ROIN speaks in sign language, the international language of the deaf.

China radiation fallout hits U.S.; no health risk

by United Press International

A cloud of radioactive fallout from a Chinese nuclear blast nine days ago moved across the United States and heavy weekend rains showered small amounts on the Paicfic Northwest and along the East Coast, federal and state officials reported Tuesday. They said there was no risk "at the current levels" to public health or safety.

While the amounts were small, officials said it was the most radioactivity detected in the United States since the height of U.S. and Russian nuclear testing in the atmosphere in the 1950s and early 1960s.

Radioactivity was reported after heavy rain Saturday in the Pacific Northwest, and beginning Sunday in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut and South Carolina.

"The levels of fallout that have occurred do not present any risk to public health and safety," the federal Energy, Research and Development Administration said in Washington.

The agency said that in areas where it rained heavily, radioactive fallout had been detected from coast to coast since a nuclear explosion in the atmosphere on Sept. 26 at the Lop Nor testing site in western China.

Health officials said there was "some potential concern" that milk from cows might have been contaminated by iodine 131, which is picked up by the thyroid gland.

Dr. James Liverman, assistant ERDA administrator for energy and safety, said the fallout is not dangerous "at the current levels at which it has been detected." He said contamination "should not be of a hazardous level" for persons who came in contact with rainfall, but the iodine, when it lands on grass and is eaten by cows, forms concentration in milk.

He said that in milk, the exposure to an infant would be about 3 milliroentgens or less. The level at which the government demands corrective action be taken is 5,000 milliroentgens.

"At the levels recorded thus far, the fallout appears to be no more than 1 per cent of the level at which Environmental Protection Agency guidelines recommend that some precautionary actions be taken," he said.

Margret Reilly, chief of nuclear surveillance for the Pennsylvania Bureau of Radiological Health, said fallout also was reported in Baltimore, Md.

"The fallout was similar to or a little bit higher than we found in the late 1950s and early '60s when the United States and Russia were doing atmospheric testing, but it won't be around as long as it was then," Miss Reilly said. "We've been through this before and we now know what to do about it. People are concerned because we're just not used to it any more."

Thomas Cashman, head of the bureau of radiation for the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, said radioactivity had been detected after heavy rainfall in the New York City metropolitan area and on Long Island during the weekend.

He said "the rainfall brought down radioactive water" from the cloud moving eastward across the country.

Ford, Carter polish debate attack plans specialist in attacking wasteful military spending, and Prof. Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia University, a Soviet bloc affairs specialist.

Press secretary Jody Powell said Carter's camp feels that the psychological edge now is the reverse of what it was before the first debate, when the Playboy interview and statements on tax reform were fresh sensations.

"We had a series of blows leading up to the first debate," Powell said. "It's the opposite now. They're on the defensive — things like the economy, like Butz and the fact this campaign has found its stride."

The format for the San Francisco debate remains the same as in Philadelphia: Questions from a panel of three journalists, with three minutes to answer, two more for any followup question and two minutes for rebuttal by the opponent.

"I don't care what the critics . . . say about the debates," said Jim Karayn of the sponsoring League of Women Voters. "The ultimate consumers for this product are the voters and our object is to give them a feel for these men and their ideas . . .

"We'd rather be accused of being dull and informative than being zippy video and irrelevant. Everything on television can't be 59 seconds of Pow!"

The questioners will be Richard Valeriani of NBC, Henry Trewhitt of the Baltimore Sun and Max Frankel of The New York Times. The moderator is Pauline Frederick of National Public Radio.

The third and last presidential debate, open to questioning on any topic, will be held Oct. 22 at a site yet to be chosen. Vice presidential candidates Dole and Sen. Walter Mondale will debate Oct. 15.

In Boca Raton, Fla., pollster Louis Harris said Ford has the most to gain from the debate with Carter.

Harris also told the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute's annual convention that most voters don't seem to be satisfied with either candidate.

"Ford has the most to gain in the next debate because the GOP has been winning the most when it concentrates on foreign affairs," he said.

Harris also said that voters, by a 57 to 27 per cent margin, "feel that Ford is not experienced in foreign affairs and that is his weak point," and that a good showing in San Francisco could gain him respect in that area.

Of voter dissatisfaction, Harris said: "The irony of this election is that six out of 10 people do not feel strongly for either Jerry Ford or Jimmy Carter."

He said the turnout Nov. 2 could drop below 50 per cent of the eligible voters.

He said Carter jumped off to his big early lead because he "took on the old line Democrats" and beat them.

"The voters liked Carter because he got the nomination without owing the old leaders anything," Harris said. "He looked unbeatable."

But since then, he said, Carter's lead dropped from 35 percentage points to 7, and even to 4 in the critical states he said will decide the election.

Right-wingers rampage in Spain

Spanish right-wingers leaving the funeral of a high government official slain by Basque guerrillas went on a rampage in the center of San Sebastian Tuesday, attacking customers in bars and forcing patrons from movie theaters at gunpoint, the national radio said. A crowd of more than 1,000 persons earlier marched through the city center shouting "Franco, Franco," "Power to the army," and "Assassins to the wall." The demonstration came at the end of services for Juan Maria de Araluce Villar, 59, a member of King Juan Carlos' highest advisory body, the Council of the Realm. He was one of five persons slain Monday by urban guerrillas in the center of San Sebastian, a Basque provincial capital.

Diplomats win Rhodesian peace conference

The U.S.-British diplomatic team in southern Africa has won agreement from Rhodesia's white regime and black nationalist leaders to convene a peace conference in two weeks, probably in Livingstone, Zambia, according to reports Tuesday from South Africa and Rhodesia. The conference's aim will be to decide on a slate of blacks and whites to govern Rhodesia during the two-year interim period between white supremacist and black majority rule, the diplomats said. Ted Rowlands, the British Foreign Office minister of state for African affairs, said there is a "good indication" the meeting can succeed.

Butz, the 67-year-old former Purdue professor who served in three administrations, handed President Ford his resignation Monday. An aide said he visited his office for a few hours Tuesday to take home personal belongings and bid farewell to associates. Butz has not publicly discussed his future plans, but said he wanted to continue working for Ford's election. Through a spokesman, Butz denied there had been any secret USDA meetings with state cooperative extension service directors, or that he had counseled them how to avoid compliance with civil rights laws, as a Los Angeles Times report said.

Ford never funneled funds: accountant

President Ford's personal accountant said Tuesday he can prove Ford never funneled campaign funds into his own bank accounts and records show "no discrepancies" in those accounts. At the same time, the Republican chairman in Ford's home county said he has no indication the Watergate special prosecutor is winding down his investigation of campaign spending in the President's old congressional district despite Washington reports to that effect. Watergate prosecutor Charles Ruff is reported investigating alleged misuse of funds funneled through Michigan GOP organizations in past election campaigns.

Marijuana glaucoma tests approved

Acting on the appeal of a man who claims he needs marijuana to keep from going blind, federal drug regulation agencies have approved human tests of the drug for treatment of glaucoma, government spokesman said Tuesday. The unusual "compassionate" approval for closely controlled studies by a Howard University professor may involve up to 50 patients, who either will be given marijuana capsules or allowed to smoke marijuana to determine its effectiveness in relieving pressure within the eyeball from glaucoma. At first, the study will have only one subject: Robert Randall, 28, who says he has glaucoma, is blind in one eye and going blind in the other, and needs marijuana bcause standard medicines are ineffective in relieving the disorder.

Religious clashes on West Bank

Tear gas disperses Arab youths

HEBRON, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI) — Israeli troops fired tear gas to disperse crowds of rock-throwing Arabs Tuesday in new violence resulting from religious clashes on the West Bank of the Jordan last weekend.

The Israeli forces moved in after Arabs in Nablus set fire to stacks of tires, threw rocks and attacked a tourist bus.

Military sources said the incidents took place in the walled, old section of Biblical Nablus, the West Bank's largest town, and in nearby Jenin and Tulkarm. No casualties were reported.

Rock-throwing youths also attacked a tourist bus outside the Balata refugee camp near Nablus, but no one was hurt.

As the latest violence erupted, two chief rabbis traveled through the winding, cobblestone streets of Hebron to the sand-colored Tomb of the Patriarchs for a somber examination of Biblical scrolls desecrated by Arab rioters. The Arab attack followed charges that Jews had desecrated the Koran in earlier disturbances.

Hundreds of Israeli soldiers, including red bereted paratroopers armed with submachine guns, enforced a three-day-old curfew that kept streets deserted. Arabs peered at them from windows and roofs.

Israeli newspapers warned that the strife between the 60,000 Moslems of Hebron and the 1,500 Jews of nearby Kiryat Arba might escalate into "religious warfare."

The Israeli government arranged a state funeral Wednesday for the mutilated scrolls at Hebron's Jewish Cemetery, the burial place of dozens of Jews killed in 1929 Arab rioting that forced the Jewish community to abandon the town.

Hundreds of Arab youths tore up the eight handwritten Biblical scrolls and dozens of prayer books Sunday.

China hits U.S., Soviet meddling

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Chinese Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua told the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday that U.S. and Soviet "meddling" in Africa and other parts of the world is like "lifting a rock to drop it on your feet."

In the first major policy speech by a top Chinese official since the death of Mao Tse-tung, Chiao said Peking would "carry on the cause left behind by Chairman Mao . . . and keep to Chairman Mao's revolutionary policies in foreign affairs."

"As Chairman Mao Tse-tung pointed out, the current international situation is characterized by great disorder under heaven, and it is excellent," Chiao said. "This great disorder is a good thing and not a bad thing for the people. It throws the enmies into disarray and divides them."

Chiao also blasted the United States for keeping Vietnam out of the United Nations and demanded it withdraw its forces from Korea.

Chiao directed most of his criticism toward the Soviet Union, indicating China's rejection of overtures from Moscow since the death of Mao for the two Communist giants to heal the 20-year-old rift between them.

On Africa, and without specifically mentioning Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's recent shuttle diplomacy on obtaining black majority rule in Rhodesia, Chiao said that black Africans should continue to fight.

"The handful of colonialists have been cornered in southern Africa," Chiao said. "The situation there is complicated owing to the meddling of the two superpowers. But the long-tempered African people are clear-headed. They do not believe the nice words of imperialism and social-imperialism, nor are they intimidated by their bluster.

"They will surely win their liberation by relying on their own armed struggle."

"The rivalry between the two superpowers — the Soviet Union and the United States — extends to all parts of the globe. The United States has vested interests to protect around the world and the Soviet Union seeks expansion."

"The continued pursuit of such a policy will result in lifting a rock only to drop it on one's own feet," Chiao said.

"There is now a strange phenomenon in the world," Chiao said. "Some people are terrified at the mention of the Soviet Union, thinking that it cannot be touched. This is superstition. Soviet social-imperialism is nothing to be afraid of. It is outwardly strong but inwardly weak. Alienated from the people, it is essentially feeble."

Ford predicts he'll carry California with Hayakawa

• President Ford predicted Tuesday that he and Republican senatorial candidate S. I. Hayakawa will carry California in the Nov. 2 election. Hayakawa, seeking to unseat incumbent Democrat John Tunney, visited Ford at his rented mansion in San Francisco's Pacific Heights. Hayakawa, 70, came to National attention several years ago when he pulled wires from a sound truck being used by demonstartors at San Francisco State University.

McCarthy's talking head now has three bodies, Bergen told an interviewer, and gets a new toupee every year. "So does he," cracked McCarthy.

Carter not likely to win suburbs; aide

The head of Jimmy Carter's Illinois campaign candidly stated Tuesday he does not expect the Democratic presidential nominee to win in the suburbs. Paul Sullivan said, "We definitely have not given up" the areas. However, he added that Democratic candidates have carried Cook County in past presidential elections, but no Democrat has carried the suburban townships in the past three elections.

Lyndon B. Johnson was the last candidate to come close in his 1964 landslide victory over Republican U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater. Johnson lost the suburban area by about 34,000 votes but carried the county by more than 600,000 votes. Sullivan's remarks came as he released results of a new poll taken by Carter pollster Patrick Caddell, which shows the Georgian leading President Ford 47 to 45 per cent, with about 8 per cent undecided. He said the closeness of the figures shows the battle still is a toss-up in Illinois. A Carter poll taken in September showed him running slightly behind Ford in the state.

Ford, wife to visit Joliet Oct. 15

President Ford and his wife, Betty, will arrive in Joliet Oct. 15 on a "special campaign train" and stay overnight in the town, a Ford campaign spokesman said Tuesday. The spokesman, Michael Ellis, said the President would arrive in Joliet during the "late afternoon or early evening," spend the night there and campaign in Joliet the next day. No other stops in Illinois have yet been confirmed, Ellis said.

Catholic hymnals to be returned

Roman Catholic churches in the Chicago area have agreed to give a Los Angeles music publisher thousands of hymnals that allegedly infringe on copyrights, it was announced Tuesday. The publisher filed a $2 million suit two weeks ago against the Chicago archdiocese, charging it is guilty of copyright infringements. Charles A. Laff, an attorney representing F.E.L. Publications Ltd., said Chicago area Catholic churches have produced their own volumes of hymns using various mechanical reproduction systems.

The letters in the corporation's name stand for the Friends of the English Liturgy, which was founded by Dennis Fitzpatrick, 39. Under terms of the agreement worked out during a hearing Friday before U.S. District Court Judge Alfred Y. Kirkland, the archdiocese must remove the makeshift hymnals from circulation in 97 of its 447 churches named in the suit. Laff said that for $100 a year as payment to F.E.L. by each individual church, they could have unlimited copying privileges on the 1,150 musical selections handled by F.E.L.

Homes stop taking Medicaid patients

Nursing homes on Chicago's North Side and in 14 Downstate counties have all but stopped admitting new Medicaid patients, a spokesman for the nursing home industry said Tuesday. Hillel Yampol, executive director of the Illinois Assn. of Health Care Facilities, told a news conference some 60 homes already have closed their doors to new public-aid patients and as many as 400 others have indicated they may do so. "The Public Aid Dept. is putting us out of business," Yampol said. He said the department only pays an average daily reimbursement of $17.12 per patient. That represents only a 5 per cent increase since 1973, Yampol said, far below the cost-of-living increase for the period. "What they're trying to do is pay for 1973 care with (less valuable) 1976-77 dollars," Yampol said.

Yampol said 65 per cent of all nursing home patients in Illinois are on public aid. He said at meetings held last week in Oak Brook, Springfield and Mount Vernon, that several nursing home operators had indicated they had to stop admitting Medicaid patients because of the costs involved.

Rule reversal on chiefs' benefits turned down

A move to reverse a Social Security Administration ruling barring police and fire chiefs from collecting retirement benefits has been turned down temporarily by a federal judge in Chicago.

U. S. District Judge John F. Grady refused last week to extend a 30-day temporary restraining order that required municipalities to continue withholding Social Security deductions for chiefs in Illinois.

The administration ruling has been challenged by Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis R. Case who has filed suit against the Social Security Administration and the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

CASE HAS CHARGED that his civil rights were violated by the administration ruling, which bars chiefs from receiving Social Security benefits if they participate in the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund program.

The ruling, issued in April, is retroactive to 1969.

Case was unavailable for comment Monday.

U. S. District Judge Prentice Marshall had issued the temporary restraining order in August while temporarily assigned to the case, but Grady turned down the suit's request for a preliminary injunction to delay enforcing the ruling until the lawsuit is settled.

"The suit is still pending," Case's attorney, Richard McPartlin, said Monday. "We are now operating under no temporary restraining order or injunction. That is not to say that the case is decided against us or for us or that it's over."

Another hearing in the case is set for Oct. 29.

During court action last week, Grady permitted the Village of Rosemont to appear to testify against the suit.

THE APPEARANCE stemmed from an earlier suit by the village asking that police officers be exempt from Social Security because they participate in a separate police pension program.

That action was decided in the village's favor and about $247,000 in withheld deductions was returned to the village, McPartlin said.

But he said Case's suit was filed because the state's chiefs are not included in the police pension fund program.

Case has demanded a jury trial in the class action suit representing the state's chiefs.

Three organizations cite Herald

Three professional organizations have recognized The Herald for excellence in circulation and advertising promotion.

Central States Circulation Managers' Assn. named The Herald first-place winner in its annual promotion contest for a display on the paper's "traveling troubadour" and prize truck for carriers. A second-place award was given for the promotional campaign by the International Circulation Managers' Assn. at its annual meeting in Minneapolis, Minn.

The Herald received two certificates of excellence from the Suburban Newspapers of America, one for advertising sales material developed by Herald staff members and the other for a campaign to promote "The Herald . . . the only daily newspaper you need." It involved in-paper advertising, radio spots and billboards. The SNA awards were announced in Chicago in late September.

Fulle 'shocked' appeal bid is turned down

Former Cook County Republican Chairman Floyd Fulle said Tuesday he is "shocked" the U.S. Court of Appeals has turned down his appeal of his conviction in a zoning bribery case.

Fulle, 666 Laurel, Des Plaines, who also is former Maine Township GOP committeeman and a former Cook County commissioner, said, "I thought the appeal was foolproof." He said he will consult with his attorneys before deciding whether to carry the appeal of his five-year prison sentence to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court of appeals Tuesday in a unanimous 11-page decision affirmed Fulle's Oct. 31 conviction on two counts of extortion, three counts of perjury and two counts of tax evasion.

The court rejected arguments by Fulle's attorneys that U.S. District Court Judge Bernard Decker had committed errors during the trial and had made one-sided rulings favoring the prosecution.

"We do not believe the defendant was deprived of his right to a fair trial," the court said.

Fulle was convicted of extorting an estimated $69,000 from two Northwest suburban apartment builders in return for approval of zoning changes by the county board. Since his conviction, Fulle has resigned his post as Maine Township committeeman and has been replaced on the county board.

Big vs Small Tubes

by Ed Landwehr

Many people have ideas and notions about television that are not factual in the least.

One that we come across often at Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights is that the large TV picture tubes wear out faster then the smaller ones.

Actually the life of a tube has no bearing on its size. The wearing out process will not vary in a small or large tube.

Nervous? Can't sleep? Relax, try biofeedback

by KURT BAER

Relax. It sounds easy, second nature, like walking or talking. Just do it. Only we don't.

In today's stress-filled environment, man often has to learn how to relax. There are many, many techniques — transcendental meditation, old fashioned daydreaming, staring at a spot on the wall, or chanting a mantra are just some of the different ways people find to relax.

To help persons learn how to relax under stress, Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, is organizing a new outpatient program using the tools of biofeedback.

Biofeedback is new, commonly misunderstood and not widely practiced, at least by reputable clinics, Judy Wille, a registered nurse organizing the program, told an audience at an opening session of a four-day health program at Alexian Brothers called Health Awareness.

IN BIOFEEDBACK there is no electricity sent to the brain. All the energy comes from the brain. It's biological feedback on the functions of the human organism," Mrs. Wille said.

To detect biofeedback, technicians use sensitive machines. Brain waves, muscle tension and body temperature are indicators of stress and relaxation in a person. By measuring these indicators the machines show when the person is truly relaxing and can help him develop the skill.

There is no pain, electric shock or particular health hazard to the process, Mrs. Wille said.

"How you relax isn't really important. Whatever works for you is fine. But you have to learn some method," she said.

THERE IS evidence that as much as 70 per cent of the physical illnesses we report are caused by stress, she said. "Look at the times you get sick or are accident prone and you will often find that you are under some stress or tension."

The biofeedback program cannot eliminate stress but aims to teach relaxation "as a different kind of response to stress," Mrs. Wille said. "It's not a panacea, not a cure all. It's a way to deal with stress and anxiety without the use of chemicals. You have to do it on your own."

The biofeedback program at Alexian Brothers normally consists of 12 half-hour sessions costing $10 each, Mrs. Wille said. Persons interested should call the medical center at 437-5500 for information on enrollment.

Health Awareness programs continue at Alexian Brothers through Friday. Today's sessions include blood pressure screening and information on heart disease from noon to 3:30 p.m. and information of the hospital's emergency life pack and telemetry equipment, and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation demonstrations from 4 to 7 p.m.

Thursday's programs focus on cancer, including afternoon tours of the nuclear medicine department. Friday will include a 4 p.m. lecture on leisure as a sociological problem and an 8 p.m. performance of "Lady on the Rocks," a play on the problems of alcoholism. A health film festival from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday is scheduled.

For more details on any of the free Health Awareness programs, call Alexian Brothers' public relations department at 437-5500, ext. 451.

Cook County officials 'hopeful'

Construction of seniors' housing by December?

Cook County Housing Authority officials are hopeful construction of the $3.5 million senior citizens housing development planned near downtown Arlington Heights will begin in December.

Once the parcel on Highland Avenue between Wing and Miner streets has been rezoned and persons living there now have been relocated, bids will be let for the project, said Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority.

Construction of the building will take 12-15 months, he said.

"We hope the zoning is finalized and the relocation can be concluded by Dec. 1. Then we'll finally be in the position to produce some housing for senior citizens that is so sorely needed in Arlington Heights," Walchirk said.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission is scheduled to review plans for the 119-unit development Nov. 3 and the zoning board of appeals will study the proposal later that month.

THE HOUSING PROJECT will be funded entirely by the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. The L-shaped site is considered ideal because of its proximity to the central business district and the Chicago and North Western Ry. station.

Walchirk said he does not expect any difficulty in getting the land rezoned because the parcel was mutually agreed upon by the housing authority and the village in 1975. The village first applied to the county authority for the senior citizens housing in 1970.

Plans for the six-story building already have been studied by the village's plat and subdivision committee and the only major question raised about the project was the amount of parking needed, John Best of the village engineering department, said.

Walchirk is proposing 35 parking spaces for the 119 occupants.

"WE THINK THAT based on the national experience as well as the local experience, that about one parking stall for every three apartments is enough because the occupants just don't own automobiles," Walchirk said.

The Arlington Heights Housing Commission has urged the village board to pass a resolution asking the housing authority to give Arlington Heights residents first preference when occupants are chosen for the building.

The village already has the names of more than 500 persons who have shown an interest in living in the 119-unit project.

Dist. 23 contract talks to resume

by PAM BIGFORD

A representative for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers union has said the union will contact the board of education within a week to resume contract talks for the first time in three weeks.

David Kessler, chairman of the union negotiating team, told The Herald Tuesday that a letter from Supt. Edward Grodsky to the union indicated to union leaders that the board is willing to compromise.

In Grodsky's letter, which was a refusal of a union request to act as a go-between to get the two sides back to the bargaining table, Grodsky said he has "certain knowledge that the board of education wishes to resume neogitations." He urged the union to contact the board to set up a meeting.

"THAT PARAGRAPH indicates to us that the board is willing to compromise and we're going to call them before the next board meeting (Oct. 13)," Kessler said.

Board Pres. Melvin Lace told The Herald Tuesday that the board has always been willing to negotiate and that he sees no problems in setting up another meeting.

Kessler said the union plans to continue to pass out leaflets at open houses at district schools this week to inform the community of the union's position.

Contract talks broke off three weeks ago when the union left the bargaining table stating that the board was unwilling to compromise on the method of giving teachers raises, the issue that both sides have called the major obstacle to a settlement.

The union wants to drop the current merit system of pay in favor of a standard salary schedule. The board wants to maintain the merit system but agreed to form a committee to look at alternative methods of pay as long as merit will be considered as one of the alternatives.

THE TEACHERS agreed to allow the committee to consider merit pay if board policies on maternity leaves and procedures for releasing tenured teachers and an early retirement policy were added to the contract. When the board said maternity leave and teacher release could not be placed in the contract, the union broke off negotiations.

Kessler said the teachers are going to return to the table because "it makes no sense to just stare at each other. But our position would not change. We would just go back to see what happens. This doesn't guarantee that anything will happen."

Although the district's negotiations framework allows either side to declare impasse and to demand that a mediator enter the talks, neither side has chosen to do so.

Lace and Kessler said they believe negotiation problems that now exist can be worked out between the board and the union and that a mediator is not necessary.

Kessler said items besides the method of giving raises must still be settled but said he does not see any problem reaching a settlement once the raise problem is decided.

KESSLER DENIED recent statements by Lace that "people external to the district" are directing the Dist. 23 teachers in their actions on the contract.

Although the union is affiliated with the Illinois Education Assn., a statewide teachers union, Kessler said the IEA is "not directing the teachers in this.

Autos damaged, robbed in dealer lot

Vandals and thieves have stolen $580 in car accessories from an Arlington Heights auto dealer and caused $140 damage to the dealer's showroom, police reported Tuesday.

Police said thieves stole an AM-FM 8-track stereo tape player valued at $280 from one car, and took eight wheel covers valued at $300 from two others parked in the used car lot of Roto Lincoln Mercury, 140 E. Northwest Hwy., between 5 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 a.m. Monday.

Vandals also smashed windows on two used cars, police said, causing $70 damage to each.

Man arrested on drug charges

A 20-year-old Wheeling man has been arrested by Arlington Heights police for possession of marijuana and barbituratts police rtported Tuesday.

Police said they arresxted Richard W. Schmitz, 834 Old Willow Rd., after a traffic stop on Techny Road east of Arlington Heights Road at 2:20 a.m. Monday.

Schmitz, a passenger in a car driven by an 18-year-old Wheeling man, allegedly tried to hide a plastic bag containing marijuana as a patrolman walked to their auto. A search of Schmitz reportedly netted 15.5 grams of marijuana and four pills suspected to be Preludin, a barbiturate.

Schmitz was released on $2,500 bond and ordered to appear Oct. 29 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

to ventilate the building he said.

A firefighter who later ventured into the basement was overcome by smoke and heat. Taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights was Fire Lt. Edward Fitch. He was treated for smoke inhalation and released Tuesday night.

BY THE TIME firefighters extinguished the blaze at 7:30 p.m., four feet of water had been pumped into the basement, Winter said.

The basement was destroyed, and 12 apartments made uninhabitable by the fire, Winter said. The remaining 12 units will not be reoccupied until power is restored later this week, he said.

Nineteen firefighting units carring more than 75 men responded to the blaze. Firefighters labored for several hours in rain and cold to extinguish the blaze and to vent smoke and heat.

Fire investigators remained at the scene late Tuesday night, seeking to determine the cause of the flames.

They told me I'd find you here rehearsing for the foreign policy debate.

The way we see it

Debate Part II deserves viewers

Republican Gerald R. Ford and Democrat Jimmy Carter enter Round Two of the Presidential debates tonight. Concern has been expressed — because the first debate produced no dazzling oratory nor clear victor — that interest in the debates may wane and the television viewing audience may be considerably smaller for tonight's debate.

The first debate was not especially stimulating, but we urge voters to tune in tonight. The debate two weeks ago was on domestic policy considerations; tonight's will deal with foreign policy.

While the bread-and-butter domestic issues are supposed to be foremost in voters' minds this year, foreign policy also is critical. The 90-minute debate from San Francisco should be the most penetrating view of differences between the two candidates on foreign policy.

For example, the Ford and Carter positions on the Mideast will help determine the degree of this country's involvement there. And they could affect our country's ability to deal with the threat of another oil embargo.

The debate will provide voters an excellent opportunity to judge how Ford and Carter would handle relations with the Soviet Union, China and other world powers.

Clues will emerge from the debates on how Carter would differ from Ford in handling emerging nations, including the volatile situation in southern Africa.

The first debate gave both Ford and Carter a chance to refine their debating techniques. Too often the form of the debate seemed to interfere with the healthy clashing of personalities and views. Both men have been coached extensively about their debating techniques and about the substance of foreign policy matters that will be discussed.

We think tonight's debate will be well worth watching and urge voters to tune in.

Indecision leaves Hoffman Estates without code

After eight months of debate over whether Hoffman Estates employes and officials should be subject to ethics guidelines, the board Monday night still couldn't decide.

In a 3-3 vote with trustee Bruce Lind out of the room when the vote was taken, the ethics legislation has been buried under a political brouhaha.

Some trustees felt the ordinance was too stringent. Others believed it was too loosely written. As a result, there apparently will be no ethics legislation in Hoffman Estates, unless it is reintroduced by trustees.

Here's the way the reasoning went:

Village Pres. Virginia Hayter: "I'm finished with it," she said after voting against the ethics ordinance because it was too weak.

William Cowin: He called the ordinance "an apology" for past corrupt village officials. "It's window dressing," he said.

Trustee Jeanne Pavey said the ordinance should be supported because it would be "more effective" than an ordinance that included a penalty for violators.

What began as a solid ethics law covering conduct of officials in Hoffman Estates was transformed into an ineffective piece of legislation which deserved its fate.

In the final version the law provided no clause asking for disclosure and no penalty for violation of the ordinance. It would not have been a substantive ethics legislation as it originally was intended to be.

We wish there were no need for such legislation, and in Hoffman Estates there may never be.

But as we've said before, the value of full disclosure is so great that the problems accompanying it must be tolerated. Some officials naturally would object to being forced to disclose their finances. But not those officials who deserve public confidence.

We believe much of the prior misuse of public positions by suburban officials could have been prevented if there had been such ethics rules with penalties for those who break them.

It's a shame that Hoffman Estates officials, who began with the best intentions, have buried this important issue.

Residents stunned by alderman's demand for special use of police

I was stunned to see such a first page write-up in The Herald this morning. I'm speaking of an officer of the Rolling Meadows police force being indicated that he was in the wrong for not taking an alderman's son home from a meeting he attended.

I understand the alderman had a meeting also, therefore was unable to take his son home. Well, that is too bad. It is his responsibility to see that his son can get a ride home, not leave the burden on a policeman.

It just so happens that I attended the Boys Baseball meeting that particular evening. There were quite a few, at least 12 boys there, and their fathers were not there. Should they obtain a ride from the police department also? Could not one of these boys either walk or ride together, the meeting was out early. Our Rolling Meadows police department is not a taxi service for anyone including aldermen. Please do not disgrace our Rolling Meadows police department by asking them for menial favors. If the boy is old enough to go to a meeting, he is old enough to walk home by himself.

I wish to compliment The Rolling Meadows Herald for its editorial "Police Right to Obey Rules" (Sept. 27).

It expressed very well the feelings of many citizens of this community who believe that Alderman Huddleston went far beyond his authority to demand that a police squad car be a taxi service for his 16-year-old son. As I understand it, this so-called leg injury was not even mentioned to anyone until well after Corporal O'Malley's refusal to drive the boy home. If this is the case, it appears to be just an afterthought on Huddleston's part.

To openly criticize a police officer for obeying police department regulations is totally irresponsible and an inconsiderate abuse which the officers of our police department should not be expected to tolerate.

Bravo Mr. and Mrs. Bedrava. For standing up for your rights to keep your property looking great.

Everyone is for conserving water. But the way our village went about it this year is appalling. For one thing, they never sent a notice to the homes telling us of the sprinkling ban. If you didn't buy The Herald you never knew about it. That, of course, is typical of Mount Prospect Water Dept. We had a rate hike in the middle of our April, May and June bill. The water department never sent out the letters for the rate hike, they had them printed up but didn't know how to mail them out. Everyone had to take a trip up to the water department and waste gas to pick up the sheets.

On our last water reading the kid that read the meter read it wrong. The village water department sent out a note and said our meter stopped and we needed a new meter. The village went through the expense of putting in a new meter. We had our old meter checked out and found nothing was wrong with it. Instead of a new meter, the village could have said the reading was wrong, call us for the correct reading, but they don't trust the homeowner. Nobody is trying to get something for nothing; we all pay for what we use and try not to waste. From now on we read our own meter and have the water department come in once a year and read it and check their numbers.

They wasted more time and money on our meter than Mrs. Bedrava did water. She and her husband are paying for the water they used. What about all these apartment buildings where people let their water run unnecessarily?

The Herald put this on the front page (two years' probation on sprinkling rap). But the juveniles that destroyed our schools pay nothing and you don't even put their names let alone their address in the paper. More people should stand up for their rights as did Mrs. Bedrava. We believe the water department needs new management.

"The first debate was quite informative. Based on it, my vote would HAVE to go to Ford — I like his suit better!"

The lighter side

On toward greater great debates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is talk of changing the format for tonight's "great debate" between President Ford and Jimmy Carter.

In that regard I did a quick, man-in-the-street type survey to see what the home viewing audience felt was wrong with the first debate.

Here are some of their comments and suggestions:

Newt Faglie said he thought the debates could be improved by sticking in commercials after each question.

"It was impossible during the first debate to dash out to the kitchen for another beer without missing something," he complained.

"If God had meant for us to watch television for 90 minutes without commercials, He wouldn't have given us a two-beer thirst."

Sidney Ploughfoot said he thought the debates could be improved a great deal with instant replays.

"Any time one of the candidates comes up with an articulate verbal thrust, a burst of eloquence or a brilliant riposte, they should stop the action and show it again," he said.

"Some of the networks gave us a review of the highlights after the debate was over, but that is nowhere near as effective as seeing them again right after they happen."

Mrs. Lobelia Nightshade objected to the scoring system used in the first debate.

"We had to wait for the pollsters to take post-debate opinion samplings before we knew who won," she said.

Next time, she said, they should keep a running score, updated after each question, so viewers would know who was ahead at each stage of the debate.

"It would add a great deal of suspense and excitement," she pointed out. "Suppose they came down to the last question with Carter holding a slight lead but with Ford still having a chance to pull it out with a wide sweep on the abortion issue. You'd have the audience on the edge of their seats."

Elray Limphet thought the debates could be improved by having the networks provide a canned laugh track.

"In their regular programs, the networks wouldn't dare leave it up to the viewers to determine where to titter, where to guffaw or where to applaud," he said.

"Viewer reaction is guided by a pre-recorded laugh track that brings the appropriate response into the home.

"We viewers are accustomed to this type of service and when we are left on our own, as during the first debate telecast, we become disoriented and hesitant.

"It would be helpful to have reaction cues in the next debate. If one of the candidates made an unexpected charge about the other's foreign policy, there could be a recorded gasp to let us know we should register surprise.

"Or if one of the candidates makes some witty incisive, impromptu rejoinder, there could be a recorded gasp to let us know we should register astonishment."

Preparing for winter now can save money in future

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Last winter's heating bills may have faded in your memory, but you'll soon be reminded of their pain as the balmy days start to fade and the cool nights descend.

It's like that bugaboo that homeowners often face: you're aware of a leaky roof only when it's raining, and you can't fix it then. When it's not raining, you tend to forget about the leak. Until the next rain.

Now is the time to take some preventive steps to guard againt the costs of winter weather. A few dollars spent today can save a bundle later on. Here's how:

• A thorough servicing of your heating unit should be a regular item on your calendar. Get estimates from reputable local firms who perform such services. Personal recommendations from satisfied customers are the best credentials. In any machine — and especially one that has lain idle for many months — belts can age and crack, moving parts can be in need of lubrication, valves and lines can clog. The more efficient the machine, the cheaper and better its output. That's a simple maxim. But machines don't improve their own efficiency. You've got to do it for them.

• Extra insulation in walls and ceilings can help retain heat and keep your fuel bills down. Storm windows and doors can create an air insulation barrier, particularly effective in colder climates. Insulation is an investment that should pay off handsomely, if properly done.

• Check for leaks, particularly around doors, windows, chimneys, cracks in any walls. Weatherstripping around doors and windows can be very effective, but not if it's been worn thin over the years. Replace worn weatherstripping where needed.

• Check gutters and downspouts. Are they unclogged and firmly fastened? A gutter clogged with fall leaves can result in a mini-iceberg on your roof, which can be the start of a leak. It can also rip the gutter off its moorings: a costly repair bill.

• Protect your landscaping. It hurts, both in heart and wallet to lose a plant to frost or snow. Check with your nursery as to what plants need protection to see them through the cold weather.

• If you're in an ice-and-snow climate, check your driveway and sidewalks for cracks. Seal them where possible. Water seeping into the cracks can form ice, which can heave and create further damage. Washouts can cause potholes, especially in blacktop drives.

• Any room in your house that you're not using? Why not close it off for the winter and close the heating vents. Use it for dead storage, and save a goodly sum on your heating costs.

Saving energy isn't just patriotic. It's good sense. And good dollars.

Business briefs

Accord reached in strike at Ford

The Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers late Tuesday announced tentative agreement on a new three-year contract that could bring an end to a 3-week strike by 170,000 workers. It still must be ratified and gives auto workers more time off the job in the first step toward an eventual four-day work week.

New high-speed locomotive

Amtrak put into regular service Tuesday a new lightweight Swedish locomotive capable of speeds up to 120 miles an hour — the first foreign electric passenger engine ever to run on U.S. rails. At the same time, Amtrak Pres. Paul Reinstrup announced that the locomotive would begin a high-speed test next week by replacing one daily schedule of the New York-Washington Metroliner. "We're working to see that this locomotive can perform," said Reinstrup. "If so, it may foster a new generation of locomotives in America."

New budget store at Wieboldt's

A new budget store will be opened Thursday at the Wieboldt's store in the Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect. Arthur Muenze, president of Wieboldt Stores, said, "Because our budget store at Wieboldt's State Street has been successful in providing very real savings for every family member, we feel this is an opportune time to extend the operation to our suburban stores." Grand opening sales and a drawing for prizes will be featured at the Mount Prospect store. Clothing for men, women and children is featured at the budget store.

Economy has momentum: official

It makes no difference which of "those idiots" win the election, a business publishing house president said Tuesday, because the current economic momentum means continued improvement for American business in 1977. Gordon Jones, president of the McGraw-Hill Publications Co., said in a Chicago speech forecasting the business outlook for 1977, "Things will go up in 1977, no matter what. Despite the dire warnings of disaster, if those idiots win (the definition of 'those idiots' is left up to you) it really is not going to make much difference, at least in the short run. "Momentum counts for as much in the world of business as in the world of sports, and the momentum is there, in sufficient force to carry us at least through the next 12 months."

Stocks plunge; inflation feared

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices plunged across a broad front on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday amid fears economic expansion is slowing and a possible oil increase may rekindle inflation. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which dropped 1.91 points Monday, plummeted 11.22 to 966.76. Earlier in the session the closely followed indicator had been behind almost 14 points.

The NYSE common stock index lost 0.42 to 55.20 and the price of an average share decreased 25 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter issues, was off 0.80 to 103.23.

Declines led advances by a better than two-to-one margin, 1,024 to 406, among the 1,886 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 19,200,000 shares, up sharply from the 12,630,000 shares traded Monday when many investors remained away for the Yom Kippur holiday.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. There was no change in the average share price. Volume came to 1,810,000 shares, up sharply from the 1,190,000 shares exchanged Monday.

Barron Foundation: A friend to couples who can't conceive

by BARBARA LADD

For three or four years, a woman in her late twenties tried without success to conceive a child. Although embarrassed, she and her husband finally consulted a doctor who specializes in infertility problems.

The result: a healthy, seven-pound boy. "And the cry now is to turn the faucet off," chuckled the woman's physician, Dr. Jay J. Gold. "She's had three other babies since her first one."

Dr. Gold is a clinical professor of medicine at the University of Illinois College of Medicine, Chicago. He is also board chairman of the Barron Foundation, a non-profit organization aimed at helping infertile couples and financing research on human infertility.

The Foundation was formed in 1960 to foster interest in the problem of infertility, said Dr. Gold. The organization maintains a list of expert doctors for couples seeking help. They also hold seminars to keep doctors informed about treatment methods.

"About 15 per cent of all couples in the United States have trouble conceiving," said Dr. Gold. "But 75 per cent of them can have the problem improved."

THE FIRST step is to determine the cause for the delay in conceiving, he said. "About half of the time the problem lies with the male, and their problems are usually harder to treat than those of the female."

Male-oriented difficulties include poor quality and quantity of sperm, blocked ducts and the cessation of sperm production due to previous disease or congenital defects.

Sometimes a male's problems can be treated by simply switching to another type of underwear. More often, treatment is complex or nonexistent. Artificial insemination of his sperm into his wife's womb is one of the few recent developments in dealing with male infertility.

"More studies have been done on treating female infertility than on helping male problems," said Dr. Gold. "And that's why there is more success in treating the woman's difficulties."

Advancements in hormone therapy and surgical procedures to facilitate ovulation were cited by the doctor as reasons for increased success in treating women.

BUT NOT ALL female problems are physical, said Dr. Gold. "Ignorance can play a role in infertility and there are increased instances of problem conceptions in certain religious groups."

Literature by the Barron Foundation plays down many of the stereotyped ideas concerning infertile women, however:

"Some women who were infertile were considered to be excessively shy, inhibited sexually, nervous, angry or immature. Others have been described as 'not really wanting a pregnancy deep down,' enraged at (their own) rejecting mothers, conflicted about dependency needs, rejecting of the female role or even unconsciously afraid of pregnancy, labor, delivery and motherhood.

"On the other hand, some investigators, using psychological tests, have shown that psychic differences between fertile and infertile women were indeed slight. Long-standing depression that preceded the difficulty in becoming pregnant has been another often described factor."

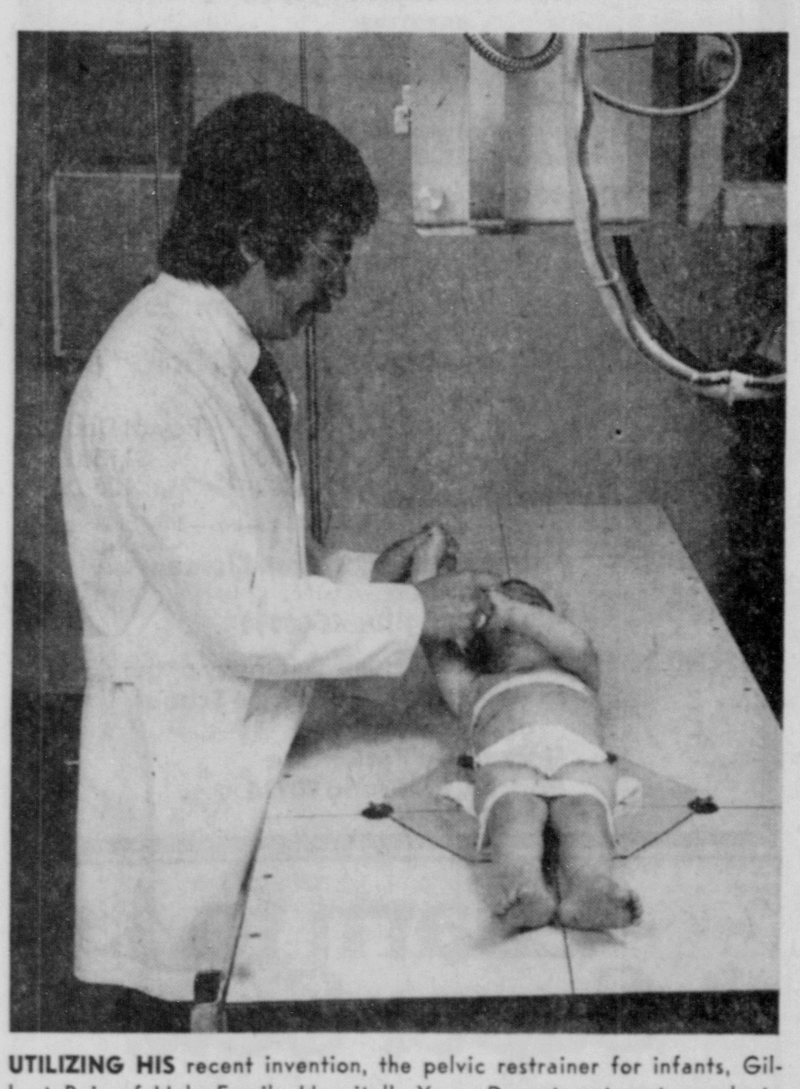
But such depression may be a consequence, not a cause of infertility, according to Dr. Gold.

AND OFTEN "temporary infertility" may result from the long-term usage of modern birth control practices, he said. "Only after a year of failure to conceive should a woman worry about fertility," he said.

Dr. Gold is optimistic about treating infertile couples and feels society is much more open today about the problems of infertility. Anyone wishing for more information on the Barron Foundation or infertility may contact The Barron Foundation, 6 E. Monroe St., Chicago, 60603. The telephone number is 346-4038.

"Infertility is not something that should just be accepted — it's nothing to be ashamed of," Dr. Gold commented.

A child may be possible for couples who think they're infertile.



UTILIZING HIS recent invention, the pelvic restrainer for infants, Gilbert Ruiz of Holy Family Hospital's X-ray Department, gets ready to perform a radiograph on a 9-month-old baby.

Wiggly babies no problem now

His invention aids in X-raying

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

"Necessity is the mother of invention." Gilbert Ruiz may borrow a quote, but his inventions and ideas are his own. He designs devices to aid in X-ray examinations.

A registered radiologic technologist, Ruiz, who also has a bachelor's degree in business administration, is assistant manager in the radiology department at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. He's concerned about unnecessary X-ray exposure both for patients and technologists, and creates ways to facilitate radiological procedures.

"When I see a difficulty, I want a device to make the procedure faster and easier," he said explaining his inventive bent.

Ruiz has perfected several such aids, the latest a device to restrain infants who may need anterior-posterior (front-to-back) testing, mainly to aid in early diagnosis of congenital displacement of hips. The condition is common and can become serious if not detected and treated, said Ruiz.

"IT IS EXTREMELY important that the diagnosis be made early so treatment can be started before the cartilaginous structures become distorted," he explained. "It is often possible to diagnose this condition at birth, but an interim period (10 days to six weeks usually) may occur before signs are evident. The importance of good radiographs to aid in diagnosis cannot be over emphasized," he stressed.

Babies kick and scream and are very strong. Such movement makes positioning for X-rays very difficult, and requires repeated exposures to insure good quality results. Prior to Ruiz's invention, three people helped in this operation.

Using his device, Ruiz can restrain the infant's movements, and he alone or with a single technologist assisting can do the job.

Mounted on an octagon-shape base with suction cups holding it firmly to the examining table, the restrainer has four self-fastening (no buckles) straps made from soft, durable fabric. Two sets of slots make the device adaptable for different size babies.

TECHNOLOGISTS position the infant by wrapping one strap around her (the condition occurs seven times more frequently in females) tummy, pulling another across her thighs. Two additional straps below the knees are convertible, and may be used for anklewraps and for frogleg position if need be.

"It's simple, but it works!" Ruiz declares proudly.

Simple perhaps, but Ruiz worked more than two years developing his idea.

He spent much time in trial and error, using his son, Mark, now 10 months old, as model. He shared development joys and woes with wife Judy, who also is a radiological technologist.

"Judy is the one person who encouraged me and helped me with my ideas. I am grateful for her support," Ruiz said smiling softly.

Ruiz's finished appliance has won applause and approval at Holy Family Hospital where he's worked two years now. Physicians on the medical staff have expressed approval.

"ONE ORTHOPEDIC surgeon, accompanying his little patient, came in with the child's parent to assist with the testing," Gil recalled.

"Beautiful! A great idea!" the doctor exclaimed as Ruiz demonstrated the device.

A member in American Hospital Radiology Administrators and in both American and Illinois Society of Radiological Technologists, Ruiz hopes his device will eventually be used in all hospitals, orthopedic clinics and elsewhere to improve infant examination.

The Holy Family health professional works in other ways to improve radiologic technology by backing a state licensure bill now pending in Springfield.

"Licensure would provide for continuing education, for example, and would require more from technologists," Ruiz explained.

Ruiz's baby-holding apparatus with patent pending will be marketed shortly by Olympia Medical Corp. in Seattle, Wash. Those interested may write that company, or contact the radiology department at Holy Family Hospital.

Marriage certificate's not just 'a piece of paper'

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Dear Ms. Martoccio,

About six months ago, I met a man eight years older than myself. I always favored older men, but I never thought I'd fall in love with one because I'm only 21, but I have.

Now he's asking me to live with him and I'm disappointed because I really want to get married, yet I don't want to lose him.

He says a marriage certificate is only a piece of paper and now I'm worried because he has admitted that he's already had living together relationships with three girls in the past 10 years. He says those experiences taught him to distinguish between mere desire and love, and that he loves me.

MY HEART tells me to say "yes," but my mind keeps telling me to think it over. I'm mixed up and can't seem to sort out my emotions.

On the one hand, if we lived together, he would move into my apartment, give up his job so he can finish his education in a shorter time. On the other hand, he hasn't promised marriage outright, but he says he's not in a position to marry right now, and I think I can convince him after he receives his degree. What do you think are my chances for marriage? — Dede.

Dear Dede,

To him? None. A three-time loser and you're still optimistic? It's heads you win, tails you lose. A gambler wouldn't say those were good enough odds. And I'll bet if you listen to this clown, you won't end up laughing.

I'll say one thing for him though. He's ingenious! Three girls saw him through college thus far, one for each year. Now he needs one more, you, to help him get that "little piece of paper," his diploma.

WE LIVE IN a paper world. It may not be the real thing, but it's nice to have around especially when it takes the form of checks, salaries, bonds, stocks, titles to property, tickets to the all-star games . . . and even a diploma.

Anyone who doesn't think a marriage license is more than a piece of paper should ask the girl who owns one . . . or as you have done, a lawyer.

Believe it or not, it takes three not two to make a marriage. The bride, the groom and the law. When you promise to "love, honor and obey," and love and your husband both fly out the door, he still has to honor and obey, not you, but the law.

And lest you forget, let me remind you what that "little piece of paper" and marriage ceremony mean.

- Your husband may promise to "forsake all others" when he takes the vow. But he'd better not forsake you and/or the children, or he might wind up behind bars. At this point, may I ask where would your living-together partner be under similar circumstances?
- Mr. Live-In Partner can refuse to acknowledge junior as his offspring. Not only is this virtually impossible for a husband to do, but he's also obliged to support junior until he's of age.
- A male roommate may take off leaving a stack of unpaid bills and an unexpired lease. While this may sound appealing to some males, even when wed, the law says it's a no-no just as it insists a husband cannot disinherit his wife with or without a will. And this is only the beginning.

Living together is not all fun and games. It's definitely not a lifestyle for the reckless or immature.

This man mixes and matches his education with his women. Next year it may be graduate school and yet another girl paying for his diploma. You're young, intelligent and in doubt. Hang in there and hang on to your ideals and wait for the right man.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Bone problem rare in young woman

My doctor told me I have osteoporosis and has given me hormones and a drug called Motrin to eliminate pain. Your column about how to stop progression was invaluable. What kind of doctor does one have to go to for treatment of such an illness or can you recommend proper exercises?

My doctor says just swim, but there must be more I can do at home on my own. I am 35 years old and have many years ahead. I want to be strong and capable. How can I get a daily program of exercises for myself. Which exercises are good and which are harmful?

Your column was read to me two weeks after I was told of my illness. I thought I was destined to be a cripple at the prime of my life, but you have opened a new door for me. Please tell me what type of doctor I should see.

I am a little surprised at your diagnosis as osteoporosis (softening of the bones) is usually seen in women after the menopause, not a young lady like you. You could have some reason for early bone changes, but it would certainly not be the usual type of osteoporosis. Porous bones can develop because of underlying endocrine problems or from disues of nutritional problems. Your case is so rare, unless there is a known underlying cause such as an overactive thyroid, that I beleive you should ask your doctor to have you seen by a specialist in rheumatology and possibly by another one in endocrinology. If possible, see if you can be referred to a university medical center.

With osteoporosis at your age I agree that you should make every effort to stop the process now. The best combination treatment seems to be that developed at the Mayor Clinic of a combination of sodium fluoride, calcium and vitamin D. This work has been published in recent medical journals and a rheumatologist or bone clinic should be familiar with this form of treatment.

Yes, exercises are important. For this aspect of the problem you should be seen by someone in physical medicine. You need exercise to prevent deformities and you also need to learn how not to injure yourself. You do not want to strain a weakened vertebra and you can prevent that by learning how to life avoiding positions that unduly strain your vertebra.

I agree that swimming is a wonderful exercise and it is a good choice for a person with your problems. However, each person needs a set of exercises designed for his or her particular problem. You will need exercises to help maintain muscle strength to maintain posture.

Be sure you get enough calcium in your diet. That means either as tablets or capsules or as a quart of milk a day. Women who are on a calcium deficient diet are five times as likely to develop osteoporosis as women getting enough calcium.

Although osteoporosis is quite rare in a person of your age, it is quite common in women after the menopause and in men 20 years older — about 70 or beyond. Hormones may delay the process for a while, but seem not to be the total answer. For more information on the disease and what to do about it I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Molded chicken salad a winner with guests

Those who entertain a fair amount, either for weekend visitors or for occasions like bridge luncheons, are always on the lookout for "different" recipes. Louise Raine makes a molded chicken salad that can be made ahead and always proves a winner. Sprinkle one envelope of unflavored gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water and let soften for five minutes. Then add one cup boiling water and stir until dissolved. Mix in two tablespoons lemon juice, two teaspoons grated onion and three-fourths teaspoon salt and chill. Combine one and one-half cups of cooked, diced chicken with one and one-fourth cups of drained, crushed pineapple, three-fourth cup diced celery and one-third cup pimiento and add to the thickened gelatin mixture. Then fold in one cup of real mayonnaise and one-half cup of heavy cream, whipped. Chill until firm and serve on lettuce.

Dear Dorothy: Breakfast in bed — and black coffee stains all over my wool blanket. Washed it with cold water soap, but to no avail. Any suggestions? — Madelaine Hayes

Black coffee stains usually are removed easily by immediate flushing with cold water. You still may be able to remove the stains by soaking in an enzyme pre-soak solution, using as hot water as the blanket can stand. An oxygen bleach solution also does a pretty good job. The soaking done, launder as usual.

Dear Dorothy: Williamsburg blue has always appealed to me we used it on our shutters when we painted last year. To my dismay we've had a lot of fading. Are there colors that stand up better? — Mrs. R. C. Feldberg

One reason so many homes have dark green shutters is because the color seems to wear well. Frankly, it puzzles me because I don't quite understand why a good quality blue shouldn't stand up equally.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

'And that's the way it is' as Walter rejects offer

Today

Mike Klein's people

The following thoughts are presented as a public service announcement before this evening's long awaited political extravaganza — Son of The Great Debate.

"Give me a W."
"W!"
"Give me an A."
"A!"
"Give me an L."
"L!"
"GIve me a T."
"T!"
"Give me an E."
"E!"
"Give me an R."
"R!"
"What does it spell?"
"Walter!"
"Louder!"
"WALTER!"
But Walter who?
Walter Cronkite, of course.

I have great plans for Mr. Cronkite. The notion began as a fleeting thought somewhere deep inside my clouded mind. It started after The Great Debate . . . also known as Jerry and Jimmy Swap Slurs.

That first Great Debate was dull. It well reflected the two candidates, Jerry and Jimmy, who also are dull. Neither one even remotely resembles a perfect candidate for President of the United Fifty.

I BEGAN TO WONDER how this dilemma might be remedied. Then it struck me! What a genius idea!

So this morning, I hereby announce formation of the Walter Cronkite for President Committee. I will serve as bartender. Every good campaign needs one.

Most persons recognize Walter as the CBS evening news announcer. I've always thought of Mr. Cronkite as Father Knowledge.

Walter never seems confused. He can discuss space shots, wars both foreign and domestic, starvation in Biafra, peasants in Egypt, crumbling cities and lust in Congress with equal aplomb.

Once my decision was final to form the Cronkite for President Committee, it seemed appropriate to speak with the candidate.

"CBS," said the woman in New York City.

"Walter Cronkite's office, please," I said.

"ONE MOMENT, please," she said. Then a telephone rang and another woman spoke.

"Mr. Cronkite's office," the second woman said.

I announced myself and began to explain strategy behind the Walter Cronkite for President Committee.

Midway through my little speech, the woman uttered a sound which might have been "Uh huh." Or maybe "Ah ha."

When I finished, she said, "Wonderful," and told me that Mr. Cronkite was not available. Perhaps he might return my call.

That would be fine, I said. But he should make it snappy because this column puts all sorts of rigorous demands upon my time.

Later my telephone rang. "Mike Klein speaking," I said.

A man began talking into my left ear. The elusive Mr. Cronkite, perhaps? No, it was George Hoover, a Cronkite aide.

I EXPLAINED everything once more. But poor Hoover started to laugh, as if he did not fully comprehend the magnitude of Mr. Cronkite's presidential candidacy.

Then Hoover said Walter declines all offers to champion him for the White House.

I feigned shock, but regained my composure. That's OK, I told Hoover. We'll still run him for president.

So this evening, settle back into your armchairs for Son of The Great Debate. Then ask yourself, "One of those two, or Walter Cronkite?"

Jerry and Jimmy give you promises. Walter gives you the cold, hard facts — so many coups, so many hijackings and so many presidents forced to resign.

Tommy Hudspeth

Hudspeth replaces Forzano

Surprise choice for Lions' coach

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — William Clay Ford has made another surprise choice, Tommy Hudspeth, to coach his Detroit Lions.

Ford, who passed over better-known assistants in 1974 when he named Rick Forzano coach, ignored his staff members again Tuesday when he selected Hudspeth to guide the National Football League team for the duration of the season.

"Hudspeth has more head coaching experience than any other man on the staff," Ford said. "I wanted to keep the present staff of assistants intact. I felt to name one of them over the others was not as wise as to bring in Hudspeth."

Hudspeth, 45, has been coordinator of personnel and scouting since joining the Lions the season after Forzano, 47, was named to succeed the late Don McCafferty as coach of the Lions. The Lions have a 1-3 record.

"I'm a member of this organization and this is just another assignment," said Huspeth, who flew from an assignment in Tulsa, Okla., to be present at the press conference. "A couple of weeks ago Mr. Ford visited with me, we discussed this and I agreed to take the job on an interim basis if this developed.

"As to next year," he said, "we'll cross that bridge when we come to it. I'd be just as happy to go back to my old job. I'll do anything I can to help this organization."

As coach at Brigham Young for eight years, Hudspeth had Virgil Carter, a 39-42-1 record and won Western Athletic Conference title (1965). He was 1-4 and 0-11 in one season-plus at Texas-El Paso before moving on to the pros in Canada and then with the WFL.

"I'm not saying I'm going to make radical changes," Hudspeth said, "but you might get some different looks, see some changes, this Sunday. And as time goes on, yes, you will see changes."

Knights swim past Cards to top MSL

by BOB GALLAS

It was billed as the meet of the year, and no one went home disappointed, except perhaps for Arlington.

Prospect, two-time defending Mid-Suburban League champs in girls swimming, took the first big step toward making it three straight by defeating Arlington, 88-84 in a battle of the unbeatens Tuesday at Arlington's Olympic Pool.

A week before the meet, Prospect coach Paul Reeff predicted it would go right down to the last relay and his team would win by taking second and third places in the event, and his forecast came true.

Ahead by four points going to the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, the Knights finished two-three behind Arlington's team, which set a new pool record with a winning time of 3:58.452.

But the runner-up points were all the Knights needed to take the meet and run their league slate to 5-0, while Arlington dropped into a tie for second with Palatine. Both those squads sport 4-1 marks.

The battle between the two schools, which so far have proven themselves far ahead of the league in talent this season, is far from over though. The conference championship is decided on a combination of dual meet records and finish in the conference meet at the end of the season. A conference meet win by Arlington, barring any other losses by either team during the rest of the season, would give Arlington a share of the MSL title.

The Knights moved out to a 40-22 lead after the first four events, but Arlington came back with a one-two-three finish in diving. Kelly Holland set a new area high by taking first with a 247.85. Holland's teammates, Donna Wasielewski and Kim Bornman took second and third respectively with scores of 216.20 and 207.40.

"Everything went exactly as planned, except for (Sue) Cripe, and she always does well. We expected to see her in the 50 (freestyle) and didn't, and we didn't think she'd do as well in the breaststroke," said Reeff, after taking a jubilant dip in the pool, courtesy of his happy team.

Cripe, Arlington's do-everything wonder, took two individual firsts for the Cards, one in the 100-yard freestyle and the other in the 100-yard breaststroke, then anchored the record-setting freestyle relay team.

Cripe took the 100-freestyle in an official time of 56.104, but could have had a sparkling 54.6. The lower time would have been taken, according to meet officials, if the stopwatch clocking the time had not been inadvertently cleared before it could be verified by meet officials.

Arlington coach Jo Anna Murdoch pointed to the tail end of her lineup as part of the reason for the Cards' loss.

"They (Prospect) took all 11 fifth places, and we took all 11 sixth places. That's 11 points right there," she said. "I thought our weak swimmers would do better."

Elsewhere in the MSL Tuesday, Elk Grove just got by winless Buffalo Grove, 87-84, Rolling Meadows swam all over Wheeling, 101-69, and Hersey clubbed Forest View, 116-53.

"I gambled big and almost got burned," said Elk Grove coach Jim Skozek, who switched his lineup around extensively for the meet. Elk Grove took all firsts but three, however, the Bison stayed in things by grabbing the runner-up spots.

"We just don't have very much depth," said Skozek. "We can take firsts, but after that it's a battle to get even third," he added. Elk Grove is now 2-3 in league competition while Buffalo Grove drops to 0-5.

Rolling Meadows continued to show some strength and racked up its second win against two losses with its win over Wheeling, which dropped to 2-3 in league action. Sophomore Ann Mackie took firsts in the 50-and 100-yard freestyle events and anchored the winning free relay team for Wheeling.

Williams in, Schoendienst out

(From Herald Wire Services)

Ironfisted disciplinarian Dick Williams was added to the major league baseball managerial ranks and 12-year veteran Red Schoendienst was subtracted Tuesday.

Williams was named to lead the Montreal Expos, who finished the regular season two days ago with the worst record in major league baseball. Schoendienst was fired after guiding the St. Louis Cardinals over the last dozen years that included two pennants and one world championship.

"Dick Williams is a guy who knows how to win and he will be an attraction here," Expos president John McHale said in making the announcement.

Williams replaces Charlie Fox, who took over from Karl Kuehl during the 1976 season. Fox now becomes vice president of operations and assumes the duties of general manager. Jim Fanning, now the vice president of player personnel, was given the job of vice president in charge of player development.

Williams, who once served as a third base coach with the Expos, was fired in midseason by the California Angels amid player discontent.

Williams said he was happy with his two-year contract with the Expos and was glad to be back in Montreal.

"I've been pretty successful since leaving here, if you can just forget about the last two seasons," Williams said. He managed Oakland to the World Series championship in 1972 and 1973.

"I will do my best to put the best players on the field. We will go after the best two free agents we can get (in the November draft)," he said, "and then we'll sell them on the advantage of playing baseball here."

Schoendienst was fired two days after the Cardinals ended the 1976 season with a record of 72-90, fifth in the National League East and one of the team's worst finishes in years. No replacement was named by the club.

In a brief statement released by the team, President August A. Busch Jr. said the firing came as a result of lengthy discussions with many persons in the Cardinal organization, including General Manager Bing Devine, who last week signed a two-year contract with the club.

Dick Williams

Red Schoendienst

"There are times, regardless of one's capabilities, when a different perspective is in order," Busch said in the statement. "Red Schoendienst's distinguished career, both as a player and a manager, are in the record books for all to see."

"I was kind of looking forward to coming back next year," Schoendienst said. "In baseball you never know what's going to happen."

He said he definitely would be interested in another managerial job and would be contacting a number of teams, including the Pittsburgh Pirates, for a post next season.

Meanwhile, Chuck Tanner can have the Pittsburgh Pirates' managerial job UPI has learned, except there is a question as to whether or not he still is tied to the Oakland A's for the next two years.

Do Illini fans deserve a winner?

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — They haven't destroyed the coach's pet like the Packer fanatics did to Dan Devine, or called the moving van to his home as idiotic Tennesseeans did to Bill Battle.

But Illini fans were not overrun with good sense Saturday, and coach Bob Blackman was not appreciativev of their attitude.

Frustrated by Illinois' inability to move the football against one of the nation's premier defensive units, and detecting what they believed was an overly conservative Illini approach, some segments of the crowd of 67,543 sought to contribute to the situation by booing their own forces.

"The offense is too predictable," came the oft-heard cry, and it was echoed by the tone of post-game questions from a dozen reporters — Roy Damer of the Chicago Tribune, Doug Grow of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Jim Barnhart of the Bloomington Pantagraph, Paul King of the Peoria Journal-Star, Fowler Connell of the Danville Commercial News and others. All questioned Illini strategy.

Blackman reacted sharply:

"Why did we give the ball to James Coleman? Because he is our tailback!"

When the tailback is halted, the Illini offense is in trouble. That's what happened Saturday.

Coleman, with 351 rushing yards in three previous games, managed just 53 net yards in 23 tries, an average of 2.3 yards per carry.

Most of his runs were described as "up the middle" in the Illini statistical rundown. In fact, 13 of his 15 rushes before intermission were of that nature, and 19 of 23 overall. Since Larry Schulz also rushed five times "up the middle" for nine yards, 24 of the 28 runs by Illinois' two main ball carriers were directed at the three individuals — Jimmy Dean, Edgar Fields and Robert Jackson — described by Blackman himself as the "best in the nation."

Since many of these Illini assaults occurred on first down, and the ground game netted just 64 yards in 39 plays, the offensive unit was frequently at a disadvantage by the

Bo: We deserve No. 1 spot

(United Press International)

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler thinks it might be a little early to rate his Wolverines No. 1, but he said Tuesday "if you're going to vote anybody No. 1, it might as well be us."

Schembechler, speaking by telephone to a football writers meeting in Chicago, said "I like being No. 1. It's never happened before. But I think No. 1 is fine. I just think that four games into the schedule and on the basis of the teams we've played, it's a little premature."

It's a "little early to tell" whether Schembechler's unbeaten team is "great," he said.

"We're a good team, but in some areas we're not as strong as we ought to be, and some where we're not playing as well as we ought to."

Saturday, Michigan plays intrastate rival Michigan State, and Shembechler pointed out that the Spartans have played such teams as Ohio State and Notre Dame, rivals of higher caliber than those of the Wolverines.

"The thing that concerns you," he said, "is how good you are until you meet stronger opposition."

Schembechler repeated his criticism of sports writers, first brought out at a Monday luncheon, but he modified it a bit. "Too many guys are looking for negative things to write about," he said.

"I don't say they should be cheerleaders, but they ought to be more positive. There are too many negative writers today. You look at the program of any team, and there'll be negative aspects. They ought to look at the positive things and balance it out."

Michigan, he said, has not been the victim of any negative writing, "not my team at all."

He didn't believe that the stronger opposition faced by Michigan State would be a factor in Saturday's game, but added "it would have, if they had beat those people. Ohio State and Notre Dame are better than anybody we played.

"We thought Stanford would be strong, and it wasn't. Wake Forest was pretty good, and it's going to win a lot of games." Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers said "there's no question but Michigan is No. 1. There are so many things Michigan is able to do, and they have tremendous speed and quickness. Offensively they make all the right moves and then you look at their defense and it's very outstanding."

Maine West trims Niles East in soccer, 2-1

John Bachmeier's penalty kick in the second quarter put Maine West ahead to stay as the Warriors turned back Niles East Tuesday in a Central Suburban South soccer fray, 2-1.

Maine padded their lead when Larry McCarthy scored with an assist from Walt Wrona in the third period. The Trojans plunked in their shot later in the third stanza.

The Warriors, after beating Glenbrook North Friday 4-1, upped their overall slate to 6-2 with the triumph over Niles. Maine West and Niles East sophomores meanwhile battled to a 0-0 standoff.

All Mid-Suburban league soccer combat — four scheduled matches — was called off Tuesday because of the inclement weather.

NHL is underway

LANDOVER, Md. — Hartland Monahan's power-play goal at 18:12 of the third period Tuesday night gave the Washington Capitals a 6-5 victory over the Atlanta Flames in the first game of the National Hockey League season.

Monahan's second goal of the game was assisted by Guy Charron and Jack Lynch and came 28 seconds after Atlanta's Bill Clement had been whistled off for hooking.

Atlanta goals by Guy Chouinard and Ken Houston during a 1:15 span midway through the final period had tied the game 5-5.

In the only other NHL game, Colorado beat Toronto, 4-2.

The Chicago Black Hawks open their season at St. Louis Thursday night.

Speedy Reds confident of victory

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds are figuring on beating the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League playoffs with speed.

"We're better than Philadelphia because of speed," first baseman Tony Perez declared Tuesday as the Reds began four straight days of workouts for Saturday night's playoff opener in Philadelphia.

"Speed won the playoffs for us last year and it should do it again," added Perez. "We can score two or three runs with one hit. Philadelphia can't."

Chimed in left fielder George Foster, "Playoff games figure to be close games because a lot of intensity is involved. And in close ball games, speed is all important."

The Reds will be coming at the Phils with such base stealers as Joe Morgan, Ken Griffey, Dave Concepcion and Foster. Reds' hitters also like to try to stretch singles into doubles and doubles into triples.

It was just a year ago that the Reds used blinding speed to knock the Pittsburgh Pirates out of the playoffs in three straight games. In one game, the free-wheeling Reds stole a playoff record seven bases against catcher Manny Sanguillen.

Ali to concentrate on film career

MIAMI — Muhammad Ali arrived to begin three weeks of filming on the movie of his life Tuesday and refused to answer any questions about his fight career, saying "that's all over now."

"The fighting is over, I'm going to start a new life, a new career," he said. "I'm not answering any questions about fighting."

Ali announced Friday in Istanbul, Turkey, that he was retiring after his narrow victory Sept. 28 over Ken Norton, but later there were reports that he was wavering.

He scheduled a news conference Sunday in Chicago to repeat his retirement announcement, but didn't show. When reporters spotted him on the streets in Chicago Monday, he refused to answer any questions.

But Ali's remarks and the presence of Wallace D. Muhammad, who accompanied the fighter on his flight from Chicago Tuesday, seemed to confirm that he intends to stick to his retirement, at least for the present.

SIU player receives special honor

TULSA, Okla — Southern Illinois tailback Andre Herrera, who bulldozed his way through a Lamar defense for 149 yards last week, Tuesday was named offensive player of the week in the Missouri Valley football conference. It was his second Valley weekly offensive award.

The Salukis won the game 19-7 for their third consecutive win.

"Andrew played possibly his best game against Lamar," said Coach Rey Dempsey. "He got a lot of his yardage on his own. There were times out there when he carried tacklers an extra five or six yards. And one time in the first quarter he gained 17 yards and carried two players over 10 yards. They still didn't get him down until two more players got there to help."

Rather, Jackson called questionable

Chicago Bears' wide receiver Bo Rather and guard Noah Jackson were listed as questionable for Sunday's game with the Minnesota Vikings at Bloomington, Minn., a Bears spokesman said Tuesday. Rather has a strained right knee and Jackson has a left foot sprain.

Wide receiver Ron Shanklin, suffering from a strained left knee, was listed as probable.

Kuhn punishes Atlanta for tampering

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fined the Atlanta Braves $10,000 Tuesday and took away their first-round selection in the January free agent draft for tampering with San Francisco Giants outfielder Gay Matthews.

The Giants had complained that John Alevizos, then general manager of the Braves, contacted Matthews without the Giants' permission during this past season about playing with the Braves. Matthews was playing out his contract and is now a free agent.

Other news in the sports world...

Anton Menas, a Wisconsin harness racing trainer, was sentenced Tuesday to a second 90 days in prison on race fixing charges. Menas, 43, Fond Du Lac, Wis., also was placed on probation for four years for pleading guilty to a charge he helped fix the first race at Sportsman's Park May 25, 1972, so he and others could bet on the winner . . .

Notre Dame's football team has lost fullback Jerome Heavens for at least six weeks and probably for the season because of a knee injury suffered against Northwestern Sept. 25. Scoreboard

Illini football

Four Aggie fumbles provided golden opportunities and only once did the Illini capitalize, leading to increased discontent.

These were occasions which, according to the coaching manual, dictated an immediate strike to dismantle a supposedly discouraged opponent . . . but only once did Illinois deviate from its apparent up-the-middle game plan, Kurt Steger tossing a swing pass of six yards to Coleman.

On that short pass play early in the third quarter, the cheers of the UI fandom could be heard long before Steger completed the pass. They were cheering the selection. It was one of only two times Steger passed on first down prior to the desperation efforts deep in the fourth quarter.

Neither Blackman nor his quarterback appreciated the coaching from the stands.

"Maybe the student body doesn't deserve a winner," said Blackman. "W hear the boos and they don't help. As it turns out, maybe we would have been better off to stick to our game plan all the way."

Blackman referred to a trick play which boomeranged with the score 7-7 in the third quarter. He inserted Mike McCray for one play, a halfback pass which was intercepted. Blackman had seen Aggie cornerback William Thompson "rush toward the flow" and tried to sneak tight end Phil Vierneisel behind him. Thompson saw McCray's No. 12 in the Illini backfield, knew something was up and hung back for the interception that set up the winning touchdown.

The dangerous nature of that throwback pass, in a sector where Illinois had no one to protect against a long return, was a stark contrast to Illinois' overall approach on this Saturday.

Steger used passes to dent the Aggie 20 twice in the late stages but both efforts were halted, again to the growing disappointment of the large crowd.

"Sure, we could year the crowd, but what can you do? You can't yell back at them," said Steger.

"Texas A&M was strong. Their linebacker (Jackson, 18 tackles) was keying on Coleman, and going to the football. Maybe we were conservative to a certain extent. We had the opportunities but we couldn't capitalize.

"Still, I can't understand the booing because we were in the game right to the end. Maybe the fans were still upset from the Baylor game. We ran three plays at the start and didn't make anything, and we heard them the first time we came off the field.

"Some of those people are just up there drinking and don't know what's going on. Maybe the coach is right. Maybe they don't deserve a winning team."

PREPARING TO SERVE is Mark Coleman of the Schaumburg Court House during the U.S. Racquetball Assn.'s Midwest Invitational last weekend in Schaumburg. Larry Potterman of the Skokie Court House is set for the return.

Wisconsin man wins racquetball title

Top-seeded Joe Wirkus came away with the men's open singles title in the third annual United States Racquetball Assn. (USRA) Midwest Amateur Invitational Tournament at the Court House in Schaumburg last weekend.

Wirkus, the Wisconsin state champion and a resident of Madison, Wis., defeated No. 3 seed Terry Fancher of Northbrook, Ill. for the title Sunday. Gil Schmitt of Ann Arbor, Mich. stopped Charlie Rish of Champaign, Ill. in the consolation match, and Ron Johnson of Indianapolis took the fifth-place spot on a forfeit.

Running grid teams enjoy most success

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — Those grind-it-out coaches are having a ball in college football this season.

NCAA statistics released Tuesday showed the top 10 rushing teams in the country have a 31-6-2 record while the top ten in passing are 13-26-1 and only Army and San Jose State are above .500 in that group.

Top-ranked Michigan leads the nation in rushing with 390.7 yards per game, total offense with 481.0 yards per game and scoring with 48 points per game. Meanwhile, California is tops in passing with 279.7 yards a game but has only a 2-2 record to show for all its yardage.

As far as balanced attacks are concerned, Nebraska has the most balance among the NCAA Division I schools, averaging 194.5 yards on the ground and 195 through the air. Michigan has the worst balance, gaining nearly 300 yards a game more on the ground than through the air.

Records fall in golf meet

Hersey golfers carved out a pair of new school records while waltzing to a championship finish at the eight-team East Leyden sophomore invitational meet.

Brad Hall paced the Huskies with an even par showing over the 34-36—70 White Pines layout to snare medalist honors. Hall's score is the best on any level ever carded by Hersey golfer.

Hall teamed with Dave Passaglia (75), Chris Duros (76) and Bob Huck (80) to fashion a 301 and easily outdistance Wheaton North at 320 for team honors.

The 301 composite is also a new school standard, bettering any previous effort at any level by the Huskies.

Classic league leaders feel Ziebart's presence

The plot has thickened in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League following the fourth week of action in the ladies' scratch competition.

Petterson Safety Service, which had been cruising in the unbeaten ranks for the first three weeks of the season, now owns just a three-point lead in the standings over hard-charging Ziebart of Des Plaines.

Although Petterson must have been happy to take five points out of seven from Striking Lanes, Ziebart swept Mason Shoes, 7-0, to trail just 31-28 in the standings.

Fueling Ziebart's drive to the top is Peggy Harris who banged out a 613 series off an opening 215 and middle 224 for top honors of the night.

Carol Anderson's steady 554 also contributed to the Ziebart sweep. Sandi Cirullo's 506 was high for Mason Shoes.

Petterson kept its lead as Winnie Lohse and Bobbie Kostelny each fired 570's with big middle games. Winnie drilled a 220 while Bobbie hit for 214. Bette Brelle keyed Striking Lanes' two-point gain with an opening 224 game and eventual 579 series.

L-Tran Engineering trimmed Thunderbird Country Club, 5-2 as Lorrie Nichols hit 519-202 and Marlis Pleickhardt 503-203. Joan Sobczak's 488 was Thunderbird's best offense.

In the closest match of the evening, Tower Cleaners finally dented the win column by tipping Ten Pin Bowl, 4-3.

Ruth Baurhyte led Tower with 567-214 while Ethel Juenger's 595 series off games of 200 and 208 earned Ten Pin a point for total pins by a margin of seven.

STANDINGS

1. Petterson Safety Service 31; 2. Ziebart of Des Plaines 28; 3. Striking Lanes 20; 4. L-Tran Engineering 19; 5. Thunderbird Country Club 17; 6. Ten Pin Bowl 12; 7. Mason Shoes 9; 8. Tower Cleaners 4.

Ask Andy

Origin of states' names is varied

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Mike Zwolinski, 11, of South River, N.J., for his question:

WHERE DID THE NAMES FOR THE STATES COME FROM?

The names of our 50 states come from eight different languages. In a few cases confusion exists and historians are not in complete agreement as to the exact origin of the name. Rhode Island's name, for example, is derived from Greek in one interpretation and from Dutch in another.

Twenty-seven states owe their names to American Indian dialects. Other languages, including French, Spanish, English and Latin, account for the names of most of the others. Hawaii is believed to be derived from Hawaiki, or Havaiki, which in Hawaiian mythology was the ancestral home of the Polynesians.

Indiana is the only state whose name is purely American in origin. It means "land of the Indians" and was so named because of the numerous Indians living there.

7 of our states—Georgia, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina — were named after English and French kings and queens. West Virginia was a part of Virginia until it pulled away in 1861. For a time it was called Kanawa, but was officially admitted to the Union as West Virginia in 1863.

Four of our states took their names from noted persons other than kings and queens. Pennsylvania was named after Sir William Penn, father of William Penn, the founder of the state. The last part of the name, "sylvania," is Latin for "wood" or "forest." Lord De La Warr, the first governor of Virginia, was honored by having a river and a bay named after him. In time the name was also applied to the land that became Delaware. Washington, of course, was named after George Washington, and New York, after the Duke of York who became King James II.

Hampshire, a county in England, and the Isle of Jersey off the coast of England, gave their names to two states — New Hampshire and New Jersey. Montana is a Latin word that means "mountainous region," and Maine was named after a region in France, the county that also gives us the name for Vermont — "green mountains."

Andy sends a Student Globe to Ken Dunham, of Winnipeg, Man., Canada, for his question:

HOW MANY DIFFERENT KINDS OF TREES ARE THERE?

Counting the number of marbles you have in a marble-bag is a fairly simple task. You simply roll them out and count them one by one. Baseball cards, buttons and even grains of rice can be counted in the same way.

A census of the number of people in a certain city is a bit more difficult. With births and deaths, and people moving into and out of a city, it is difficult to arrive at an exact number. Nevertheless, the task is necessary, and every so often the census takers embark on the difficult job of counting people.

It would seem that counting the different kinds of trees would be much easier than taking a census, but the fact remains that it has never been done. Estimates place the tree population at somewhere between 20,000 and 50,000 species. Andy placed the most thoughtful estimate at around 35,000 — more or less. However, experts are busy right now, and sometime in the future an accurate accounting of our tree varieties may be expected.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Double brings toil, trouble

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

We have to sympathize a little with poor West. He really had a pretty good double of South's four-spade bid. He certainly had no reason to suspect that South would score an overtrick.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued by leading his singleton club.

South won with the ace and decided that West's double indicated he would hold all four spades and the ace of hearts. South confirmed this by playing his ace of trumps. Then South led his deuce of hearts. If West had ducked he would have saved the ace and led a heart back.

South was in dummy with the king. He ruffed a diamond, led a trump and played dummy's king after West pup the 10. Then South ruffed dummy's last diamond and led his last trump.

It didn't matter what West did. Dummy's two trumps were good. South discarded a club on that last trump.

Where did the overtrick come from? Everyone was down to three cards. Dummy's were the queen and two little clubs. South's were the king and a small club and the jack of hearts. East was squeezed and had to chuck his queen of hearts to keep the club stopper.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Merit Cigarette Sets New Taste Standard.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

Today there's a way to get real taste from a cigarette without high tar.

That's the report on a new taste discovery called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack flavor—extra flavor—into tobacco without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is remarkable new MERIT.

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

In tests involving thousands of smokers of filter cigarettes, the majority reported MERIT delivered more taste than five current leading low tar cigarettes having all the way up to 60% more tar.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, MERIT MENTHOL was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette. MERIT.

Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.

One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.
